BY GUS MALBERT.
Playing the game of baseball as it should be played, with a nearly errorless score sheet and an altogether creditable fielding record, the Colts, behind Pierce's effective pitching, tied a blank on the shoulder of Frank Shaugnessy in the third and last game of the series at the local park yesterday. In the meantime piling up seven tallies to their credit at bat, the Colts recruited from some campus where the young idea is taught to shoot.

Willie Baker was not in the game, his collision with Conners on Friday putting him out of it for a few days at least. Gus Ezekiel, who, on more than one occasion has helped out the Colts, played the third corner, and did it in a most acceptable manner, taking care of the two chances which came his way in perfect form, and pegging with a wing which went true. He scored one of the seven runs, and with a sacrifice fly brought another across.

Truck Egan Back in Game.
Truck Egan was back, and added to his story, an exhibition at his second which brought real tears of joy to the eyes of the fans. His five chances were difficult, and with less capable work, some of the rippers hit his way would have counted as hits. But in addition, Truck managed to get in at least one healthy wallop. It was as healthy, that had Truck been working in a physical culture school, or on the cinder path, where speed is said to be developed, it would have counted for a home run. It was probably the best hit he had ever made in the local lot, hitting the blank spot in deep center on the fly, but Truck was unable to go further than second.

Jack Martin was the star performer from a fielding standpoint, covering a world of territory and snatching balls which should have been good for hits in any league with a regularity as pleasing as it was surprising, when one takes into consideration that he has a finger which is in mighty bad condition, and likely to give him a world of trouble before it gets well, if he has to continue working.

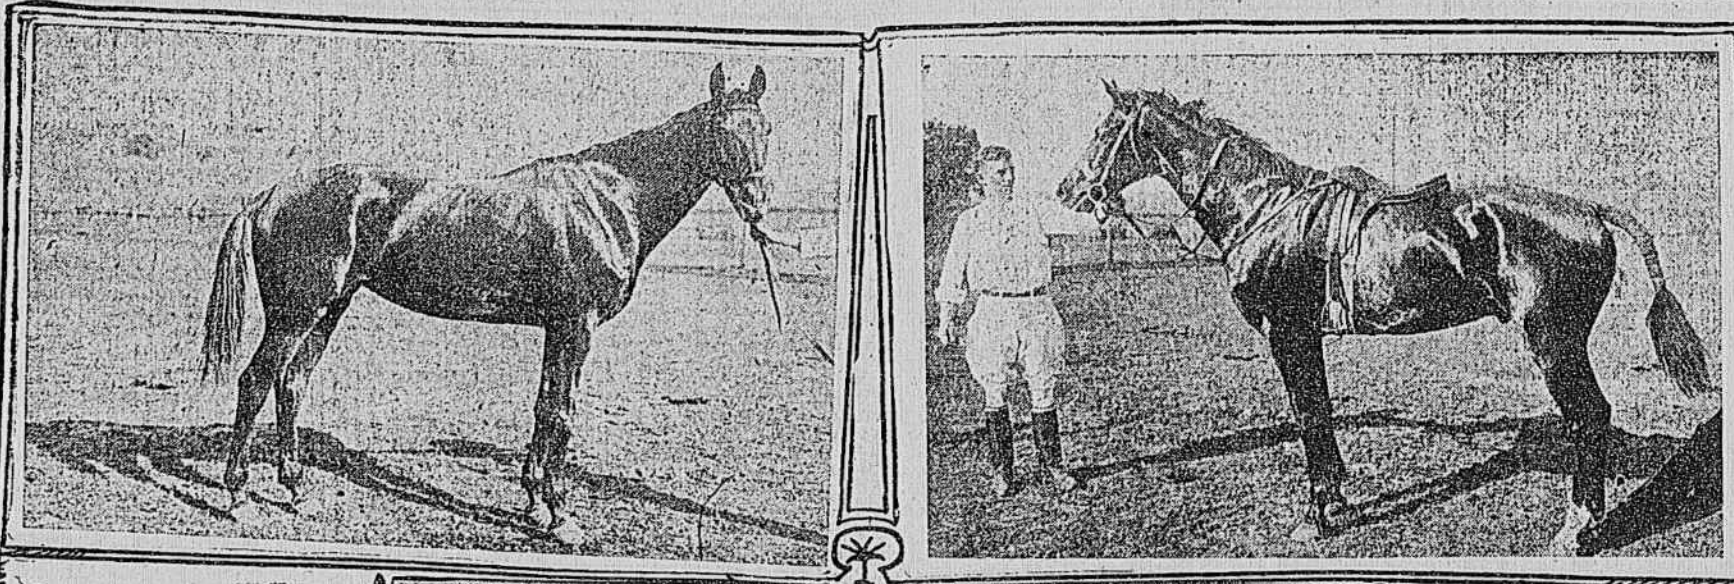

Cowan Great Backstop.
And here where the bats should go off to George Cowan. Say what you will about George, he is just on the hardest working backstops in the league, and his work in holding up pitchers deserves all kinds of credit. In the game yesterday he was at all times the master of the situation, and Pierce owes much of his success to the generosity of the man behind the mask. Not that Pierce pitched anything but A-1 ball. The fact that he let three hard-hitting Tigers down with but three hits, one of which was to the infield and was safe on a close decision at first, proves that he did pitch good baseball. The added fact that but twenty-eight men faced him, one of whom walked, gives him a record for the season.

It was as complete a reversal of form as one could imagine. Studying the game play by play, it makes one feel good and nearly makes one forget the previous performances. Only once during the entire nine innings was there the suspicion of a misplay. That happened in the very first inning. Shaugnessy was an easy out to Egan via first. Presley worked Pierce for a pass, the only one of the game, and then the big pitcher threw wild to Dobson at first, letting Presley get to third. In no other inning did Roanoke get a man to second base, and only three got to first base.

Wallace Helps Somewhat.
Wallace took part in a fast double in the second. Hall had made the first clean hit of the game after Cooper. Shaugnessy hit to center, and Hall took a big lead off. He failed to reckon with Wallace's throwing arm, for the big fellow returned quickly to Dobson and Hall was as dead as Hector. Martin gave an exhibition of the spectacular in the fifth. Conner hit to short, and Wallace was quick to catch him, running at full tilt, made a stab with his gloved hand and got the ball back.

COURTS READY FOR TOURNAMENT

Tennis Experts Arrive to Compete in Seventh Old Dominion Tourney.

GAMES AT COUNTRY CLUB

Long List of Entries Insures Good Sport and Large Gallery.

The interest of all the members of the Country Club of Virginia is centered this week in the seventh annual Old Dominion tennis tournament, which will begin on the courts of the Country Club of Virginia to-morrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The tournament has drawn a fine lot of tennis players, and tennis enthusiasts may hope to witness the keenest tennis ever seen in Richmond. This is the first year that this tournament has been run by the Country Club of Virginia, having originally been inaugurated by the Hermitage Golf Club, but by agreement between the two clubs it has been taken over this year by the Country Club of Virginia.

The events will be men's singles, men's doubles, ladies' singles, mixed doubles, and men's consolation singles. The chief event, of course, is the men's singles for the Hermitage championship cup, now held by R. H. Palmer, of New York, holder of the tri-State championship and other titles. This cup has already been won by him two years, and if he succeeds in defending his title this year it will become his permanent property, but to do this he will have to meet some of the best tennis players in the country.

Many Will Compete.
T. R. Pell, ranking eighth in the United States, who has won some of the most important tournaments in the country, and who at present holds the New England States championship and other titles, and Gustave F. Touchard, ranking seventh in the United States, who last week won the Chevy Chase open tournament, and who holds a number of other titles, are among the players who will contest with R. H. Palmer for the cup in men's singles.

List of Entries.
There are over fifty entries in men's singles, and among the out-of-town players are T. R. Pell, R. H. Palmer, G. F. Touchard, Wylie Grant and H. M. Davenport, all of New York; Clarence Fisher, of Baltimore, holder of the Maryland State championship; E. Bowle, of Wheeling, W. Va., winner of the tournament last year for the championship of West Virginia; Connie Doyle and H. E. Doyle, holders of the Southern championship in doubles, the former also the holder of the Southern championship in singles; W. E. Wood, John K. Graves, John Britton, Norris McLean, A. J. Gore and L. A. Fisher, all of Washington; A. H. Allen, of Hoope Falls, New York; W. N. Page, of Winchester, Va.; S. H. Berg and W. C. Lee, of Jacksonville, Fla.; M. A. Colton, of the United States Naval Academy; J. L. Gessing, of Cincinnati; Frank J. Hall, who last year won the Old Dominion tournament, but lost the challenge round; Bob Oglesby, W. A. Davidson, R. M. Woodson and O. G. Shaner, all of Lynchburg; V. A. Charles, G. Evans, of Danville, Va.; George Zinn, of Somerset, Va.; T. L. Bogert, of Norfolk, and others, who will arrive on Monday in time for the beginning of the matches.

Ladies' Doubles a Feature.
In the doubles, twenty teams have entered, assuring a hard contest for the doubles cups, now held by Messrs. Neely, of Chicago, and Adair, of Atlanta.

The cup in ladies' singles is held by Mrs. Sullivan and twenty-five entries have been received in the ladies' event from players who seek the honor of challenging Mrs. Sullivan. With the above talent an unusually large number of fine matches will result, and it is expected that a large gallery of players from the Country Club of Virginia and the Hermitage Golf Club, the latter having been invited to witness the matches, will be present each day.

REAL INDIANS TO PLAY BALL

Cherokee Tribemen Will Battle With Collegians at Broad Street Park Wednesday.

The Cherokee Indians, who on Wednesday next, will play the Richmond Collegians at Broad Street Park, have won quite a number of victories from the teams in the South. In the past four days they have played Reidsville, Houston and South Boston, winning from all by comfortable scores. Great interest is being aroused among the baseball loving public of Richmond in the match Wednesday, and a banner crowd is assured.

Both the Indians and Collegians have rather enviable records, and when matched should prove a struggle well worth witnessing. Either Hinchman or Wright will work for the Collegians, and to any one familiar with their pitching, that in itself will insure a hard fought battle.

The Indians have not announced their battery, but claim to have one of the strongest outside of the professional ranks. The game will be a departure from what the fans of Richmond have been seeing for some time past, that is, a semi-professional game between teams of practically equal calibre.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE

At Chattanooga: Birmingham, 3; Chattanooga, 4.
At Nashville: Montgomery, 9; Nashville, 4.

OLYMPIA READY FOR CORONATION OF KING HORSE

Greatest Event of Its Kind in History Opens Monday.

LEADING NATIONS ARE REPRESENTED

Flower of Armies of the World to Compete—Polo Pony Novelty Will Furnish Interesting Competitions—Many American Entries Are to Be Shown.

(Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.)

London, June 10.—The horse is king to-day. London and its thousands of coronation visitors can talk of nothing but the great International Horse Show, that opens at Olympia Monday, with the elite of the equestrian world from every civilized country entered. For the moment, interest in the great coronation has been transferred to the lesser one, and the whole city looks eagerly forward to what is destined to be the greatest event of its kind in all history.

All grades of horsemanship, from cab horse to charger, will be represented; every known method of handling horses, riding, jumping, driving, and on through all the varieties, practical and impractical, has a department, and the winners will share in the common fund of $65,000, which has been gathered for the event. Every day of the exhibition will present a program calculated to captivate the attention of all horse lovers, and when the final day of the show, June 21, has passed, it will be possible to retrospect upon the event as the greatest triumph ever scored for the horse; and in these days of the railroad, the automobile and the aeroplane.

Every part of aristocratic Europe, as well as America, Asia, Australia, South Africa, South America and New Zealand, will be represented by turn-outs of knights and attendants, the land from whence they come. Titled visitors, bidden to London for the coronation, have brought with them their prize-winning hacks; royalty and enormous wealth will be represented; there will be events for war horses, which will not only brighten the show with a touch of femininity, but will bring together the most famous horsewomen in the world, and the entry list has been swollen with the names of the best and in interest to none that will take place during the whole three months of English merry-making.

Flower of Armies.
The flower of the armies of all the world, restricted events that are attracting interest greater probably than any others of the contests. Among the teams considered more than able to compare favorably with the English knights and their attendants, the American entrants stand first. The representatives of the United States are:

Captain George Viemer, Eleventh Cavalry; Captain Guy V. Henry, Lieutenant Colonel Johnson, Lieutenant E. F. Graham, and Lieut. the Adm. R. Chaffee, Jr., Fifteenth Cavalry, son of the distinguished soldier, now retired, who added lustre to American arms. All the American contestants are regiments of the cavalry, near Washington, that nursery of American horsemen.

The teams against which the American army officers will compete represent England, Germany, Italy, Spain, Russia, Belgium and France, all of which countries have sent from ten to twenty of their crack army officers to represent them at the show, with the result that this feature of the performance has stepped from the comparatively tame nature of the world-wide rivalry of international cavalry.

In the events, aside from the military competition, the United States again comes strongly to the fore. As usual, Judge Moore heads the list of Americans with the number of his entries. Other American exhibitors are E. T. Stotsbury, of Philadelphia, J. P. Morley, of New York, and Judge harness horses and ponies and their equipments, and Robert A. Fairbairn, trotters, their pace and action, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, as usual, will judge the trotters' horses, and even when always supplies the comedy to the show.

Among the many interesting features that, for the first time, will be seen in England's equestrian circles, are a special class for Russian horses and driving, and a display of teams of harness horses, showing the various methods of schooling army horses in every modern country; bending competitions for polo ponies, and are brigade displays. Particularly interesting are the Russian entries. Russia's cab horses and drivers have no counterpart anywhere. The two-horse cab in Russia is hitched to a team, one of which gallops and the other trots. This phase of equestrianism will be seen in the class for trotters with Prestaphka, a galloping mate, driven in wagon or dousky.

Another Russian class is for "trotters"—driving three horses abreast—the centre one at the trot and the others
